Can we start treating screenshots ourselves?

Every time we (product marketing) need to put screenshots in an email go or in other highly trafficked areas, we have to submit them to the Interactive treatment. I'm not exactly sure what happens, but the screens come back blog screenshots ourselves, so WYSIWYG.

I'd like to understand why we can't learn to treat them ourselves. Learning following benefits:

- It would save the design team from doing what I imagine they consider
- Fewer moving pieces, less overhead in tracking down screenshots want
