Confluence suggests where to create your content based on your most frequented Spaces.

The screenshot shows the 'Create' dialog in Confluence. On the left, a sidebar lists 'Pages', 'Blog', and 'SPACE SHORTCUTS' (IRKD 1.0 Release, IRKD Roadmap, Requirements, Meeting Notes, Shared Files, Agile Board). In the main area, a 'Create' dropdown menu is open, showing 'Development' as the selected space. A 'Filter spaces ...' input field is present. Below it, a 'SUGGESTED SPACES' list includes 'Development' (selected), 'Jerry', 'Management', 'Document Systems', 'Sales', 'Human Resources', and 'Meeting Notes'. A green circle highlights the 'Development' item in the list. To the right, a 'Blog post' template is shown with the text 'Share news and announcements with your team.' and a preview image of a group photo. Another green circle highlights the 'Meeting Notes' template, which is also circled with a green box containing the text 'Surface global and space templates to your team.'.
